

Massweiler, Germany - In the summer of 1994 I was able to take a trip to Germany. While in Germany I was shown several locations where Nikolaus lived and successfully operated flour and saw mills. The first mill was located in Hornbach, Germany; the second in Riechweiler; and the last in Massweiler.

The mill in Massweiler was operated by Nikolaus and later passed to his grandson, Valentin Faust. The mill is no longer in the Faust family, but it does have a plaque in front of it commemorating the existence of the mill. It was also formally named "Faustermühle" in honor of the success Nikolaus Faust had with his milling operations.
